

Health and Safety Policy

The overall aim of Cleaning Scotland Ltd is the prevention of death, injury and ill-health of our employees, customers and anyone else affected by our business activities. Managing director Eddie Tobin assumes overall responsibility for health and safety, backed up by NEBOSH qualified Fabio Di Stefano.

- The company will take all reasonable steps to promote the safety, security and welfare of its staff, clients and members of the public who have lawful access to its premises
- The company recognises that it must provide and maintain safe and healthy conditions taking into account the requirements of the Health & Safety at Work Act (1974) and its appendices.
- The company will provide training and instructions to employees and clients
- The company will make available, as necessary, safety devices and protective equipment and provide instruction in their use
- The company will maintain a constant interest in health and safety matters and strive for continual improvement.
- The company will facilitate and supervise the assessment of risk and hazard in the use of materials or the carrying out of processes, activities and duties
- The company will ensure that all employees, clients and members of the public entering the Company's premises or making use of its resources are required to meet the obligations placed on them by the Act.

You will find a health and safety policy displayed within your respective workplaces. You should make yourselves aware of the safety procedures and the first aider on the premises. Always ensure that all escape routes and exit doors are clear of obstructions. Be aware of the location of fire appliances and first aid boxes.
